INDICTMENT

12^{1C}CRIM 125

COUNT ONE

(Conspiracy to Commit Securities Fraud)

The Grand Jury charges:

Relevant Entities and Individuals

1. At all times relevant to this Indictment, Whitman Capital, LLC ("Whitman Capital") operated as an investment advisory firm located in California focusing on technology companies. Whitman Capital managed Whitman Partners, L.P. ("Whitman Partners"), a private partnership that invested in the securities of various technology companies.

2. At all times relevant to this Indictment, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, served as the President of Whitman Capital and the principal portfolio manager of Whitman Partners.

3. At all times relevant to this Indictment, Karl Motey ("Motey") worked as a research analyst and provided services to hedge fund clients and others in the investment community.

The Insider Trading Scheme

4. From at least in or about 2007 through in or about 2009, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant; Karl Motey, and others known and unknown, participated in a scheme to defraud by disclosing material, nonpublic information ("Inside Information") and/or executing securities transactions based on Inside Information pertaining to publicly traded companies, including Marvell Technology Group, Ltd. ("Marvell"), a public company that trades on the Nasdaq Stock Market.

5. More specifically, Karl Motey obtained earnings, revenue, and/or other material financial and business information ("Marvell Inside Information") from one or more individuals not named as defendants herein who worked as employees at Marvell ("Marvell Inside Sources"). The Marvell Inside Sources disclosed Marvell Inside Information to Motey in violation of their duties of trust and confidence that they owed to Marvell and Marvell shareholders and for personal benefit.

6. After obtaining the Marvell Inside Information from the Marvell Inside Sources, Motey provided the Marvell Inside Information to DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, and others. WHITMAN knew that the Marvell Inside Information that Motey provided to him was obtained in violation of duties of trust and confidence that the Marvell Inside Sources owed to Marvell and Marvell shareholders.

7. After receiving the Marvell Inside Information from Motey, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, caused securities transactions to be executed based, at least in part, on the Marvell Inside Information.

8. In exchange for the Marvell Inside Information provided by Motey, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, caused Whitman Capital and/or Whitman Partners to pay Motey through soft dollar payments.

The Conspiracy

9. From at least in or about 2007 through in or about 2009, in the Southern District of New York and elsewhere, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, and others known and unknown, willfully and knowingly, did combine, conspire, confederate and agree together and with each other to commit offenses against the United States, to wit, securities fraud, in violation of Title 15, United States Code, Sections 78j(b) & 78ff, and Title 17, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 240.10b-5.

10. It was a part and object of the conspiracy that DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, and others known and unknown, willfully and knowingly, directly and indirectly, by the use of the means and instrumentalities of interstate commerce, and of the mails, and of facilities of national securities exchanges, would and did use and employ, in connection with the purchase and sale of securities, manipulative and deceptive devices and contrivances in violation of Title 17, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 240.10b-5 by: (a) employing devices, schemes and artifices to defraud; (b) making untrue statements of material fact and omitting to state material facts necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; and (c) engaging in acts, practices and courses of business which operated and would operate as a fraud and deceit upon persons, all in violation of Title 15, United States Code, Sections 78j(b) and 78ff, and Title 17, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 240.10b-5.

Means and Methods

11. Some of the means by which DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, and his co-conspirators effectuated the fraudulent scheme were as follows:

a. Karl Motey obtained Marvell Inside Information from Marvell Inside Sources.

b. The Marvell Inside Sources provided the Marvell Inside Information to Motey in violation of their duties of trust and confidence.

c. Motey communicated the Marvell Inside Information to WHITMAN, who executed securities transactions on the basis of the information.

Overt Acts

12. In furtherance of the conspiracy and to effect the illegal object thereof, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, and his co-conspirators committed the following overt acts, among others, in the Southern District of New York and elsewhere:

a. In or about May 2008, WHITMAN, using a prime brokerage firm located in New York, New York, caused the sale of call option contracts for Marvell stock on an exchange located in New York, New York.

b. In or about October 2008, WHITMAN, using a prime brokerage firm located in New York, New York, caused the sale of Marvell stock.

c. On or about November 3, 2008, WHITMAN, using a prime brokerage firm located in New York, New York, caused the sale of call option contracts for Marvell stock on an exchange located in New York, New York.

d. In or about January 2009, WHITMAN, using a prime brokerage firm located in New York, New York, caused the sale of call option contracts for Marvell stock.

(Title 18, United States Code, Section 371.)

COUNT TWO

The Grand Jury further charges:

13. The allegations contained in paragraphs 1 and 2 are repeated and realleged as though fully set forth herein.

14. At all times relevant to this Indictment, Roomy Khan ("Khan") worked in the hedge fund industry.

The Insider Trading Scheme

15. From at least in or about 2006 through in or about 2007, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, Roomy Khan, and others known and unknown, participated in a scheme to defraud by disclosing Inside Information and/or executing securities transactions based on Inside Information pertaining to publicly traded companies, including Polycom, Inc. ("Polycom") and Google, Inc. ("Google").

16. More specifically, Roomy Khan obtained earnings and/or other material financial and business information relating to Polycom ("Polycom Inside Information") from an individual not named as a defendant herein ("Polycom Inside Source") who worked as an employee at Polycom, a public company that trades on the Nasdaq Stock Market.

17. The Polycom Inside Source disclosed the Polycom Inside Information to Khan in violation of his duties of trust and confidence that he owed to Polycom and Polycom shareholders and for personal benefit.

18. After obtaining the Polycom Inside Information from the Polycom Inside Source, Khan provided the Polycom Inside Information to DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, and others. WHITMAN knew that the Polycom Inside Information that Khan provided to him was obtained in violation of duties of trust and confidence that the Polycom Inside Source owed to Polycom and Polycom shareholders.

19. After receiving the Polycom Inside Information from Khan, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, caused securities transactions to be executed based, at least in part, on the Polycom Inside Information.

20. In addition, Roomy Khan also obtained earnings and/or other material financial and business information relating to Google ("Google Inside Information") from an individual not named as a defendant herein ("Google Inside Source") who worked as an employee at a firm who contracted to provide investor relations services to Google, a public company that trades on the Nasdaq Stock Market. The Google Inside Source disclosed the Google Inside Information to Khan in violation of her duties of trust and confidence and for personal benefit.

21. After obtaining the Google Inside Information from the Google Inside Source, Khan provided the Google Inside

Information to DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, and others. WHITMAN knew that the Google Inside Information that Khan provided to him was obtained in violation of duties of trust and confidence.

22. After receiving the Google Inside Information from Khan, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, caused securities transactions to be executed based, at least in part, on the Google Inside Information.

23. By causing securities transactions to be executed based on the Polycom Inside Information and the Google Inside Information, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, earned illegal profits of more than $900,000. Furthermore, in exchange for the Polycom Inside Information and the Google Inside Information provided by Khan, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, provided Khan with information about publicly traded technology companies.

The Conspiracy

24. From at least in or about 2006 through in or about 2007, in the Southern District of New York and elsewhere, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, and others known and unknown, willfully and knowingly, did combine, conspire, confederate and agree together and with each other to commit offenses against the United States, to wit, securities fraud, in violation of Title 15, United States Code, Sections 78j(b) & 78ff, and Title 17, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 240.10b-5.

25. It was a part and object of the conspiracy that DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, and others known and unknown, willfully and knowingly, directly and indirectly, by the use of the means and instrumentalities of interstate commerce, and of the mails, and of facilities of national securities exchanges, would and did use and employ, in connection with the purchase and sale of securities, manipulative and deceptive devices and contrivances in violation of Title 17, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 240.10b-5 by: (a) employing devices, schemes and artifices to defraud; (b) making untrue statements of material fact and omitting to state material facts necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; and (c) engaging in acts, practices and courses of business which operated and would operate as a fraud and deceit upon persons, all in violation of Title 15, United States Code, Sections 78j(b) and 78ff, and Title 17, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 240.10b-5.

Means and Methods

26. Some of the means by which DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, and his co-conspirators effectuated the fraudulent scheme were as follows:

a. Roomy Khan obtained Polycom Inside Information and Google Inside Information from the Polycom Inside Source and the Google Inside Source, respectively.

b. The Polycom Inside Source and the Google Inside Source provided the Inside Information to Khan in violation of duties of trust and confidence and for personal benefit.

c. Khan communicated the Inside Information to WHITMAN, who executed securities transactions on the basis of the Inside Information.

Overt Acts

27. In furtherance of the conspiracy and to effect the illegal object thereof, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, and his co-conspirators committed the following overt acts, among others, in the Southern District of New York and elsewhere:

a. On or about January 11, 2006, WHITMAN, from New York, New York, spoke over the telephone with Khan.

b. On or about January 12, 2006, WHITMAN caused the purchase of approximately 32,100 shares of Polycom stock using a prime brokerage firm located in New York, New York.

c. On or about July 19, 2007, using a prime brokerage firm located in New York, New York, WHITMAN caused the purchase of put option contracts in Google on an exchange located in New York, New York.

COUNTS THREE AND FOUR

(Securities Fraud)

The Grand Jury further charges:

28. The allegations contained in paragraphs 1 and 2, and paragraphs 14 through 23 are repeated and realleged as though fully set forth herein.

29. On or about the dates set forth below, in the Southern District of New York and elsewhere, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, willfully and knowingly, directly and indirectly, by use of the means and instrumentalities of interstate commerce, the mails and the facilities of national securities exchanges, in connection with the purchase and sale of securities, did use and employ manipulative and deceptive devices and contrivances, in violation of Title 17, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 240.10b-5, by (a) employing devices, schemes and artifices to defraud; (b) making untrue statements of material facts and omitting to state material facts necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; and (c) engaging in acts, practices and courses of business which operated and would operate as a fraud and deceit upon persons, to wit, WHITMAN executed transactions in the securities of the companies indicated below based on Inside Information.

COUNT	DATE	COMPANY
THREE	From on or about January 12, 2006, to on or about January 25, 2007	Polycom, Inc.
FOUR	On or about July 19, 2007	Google, Inc.

(Title 15, United States Code, Sections 78j(b) & 78ff; Title 17, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 240.10b-5; and Title 18, United States Code, Section 2.)

FORFEITURE ALLEGATION

30. As a result of committing one or more of the foregoing securities fraud offenses alleged in Counts One through Four of this Indictment, DOUG WHITMAN, the defendant, shall forfeit to the United States pursuant to Title 18, United States Code, Section 981(a)(1)(c) and Title 28, United States Code, Section 2461, all property, real and personal, that constitutes or is derived from proceeds traceable to the commission of the securities fraud offenses, including but not limited to a sum of money in United States currency which was derived from proceeds traceable to the commission of the securities fraud offenses.

Substitute Assets Provision

31. If any of the above-described forfeitable property, as a result of any act or omission of the defendant:

- a. cannot be located upon the exercise of due diligence;
- b. has been transferred or sold to, or deposited with, a third party;
- c. has been placed beyond the jurisdiction of the court;
- d. has been substantially diminished in value;
- or
- e. has been commingled with other property which cannot be divided without difficulty;

it is the intent of the United States, pursuant to Title 21, United States Code, Section 853(p), to seek forfeiture of any other property of the defendant up to the value of the forfeitable property described above.

(Title 18, United States Code, Section 981;
Title 28, United States Code, Section 2461;
Title 18, United States Code, Sections 371 and 2;
Title 15, United States Code, Sections 78j(b) and 78ff; and Title 17, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 240.10b-5.)

1 (Recess)

2 (Jury present)

3 THE COURT: Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, we are 4 now approaching the most important part of the case, your 5 deliberations. It has been obvious to me and to counsel that 6 until now you have faithfully discharged your duty to listen
7 carefully and to observe the witnesses who testified. I now 8 ask you to give me that same careful attention as I read these 9 instructions to you.

10 You have now heard all of the evidence in the case as 11 well as the final arguments of the parties. My duty at this 12 point is to instruct you as to the law. It is your duty as 13 jurors to follow the law as I state it to you and to apply the 14 law to the facts as you find them from the evidence that has 15 been presented to you.

16 On these legal matters, you must take the law as I 17 give it to you. If any attorney in their closing arguments has 18 stated a legal principle different from anything that I state 19 to you in these instructions, it is my instructions that you 20 should follow. Moreover, you should not single out any 21 particular instruction as alone stating the law, but you should 22 consider my instructions as a whole when you retire to the jury 23 room to deliberate.

24 You should not, any of you, be concerned about the 25 particular wisdom of any rule that I state. Regardless of any

Charge

1 opinion that you might have as to what the law is or what the 2 law should be, your sworn duty is to base your verdict upon the 3 law as I give it to you.

4 Your final role is to pass upon and decide the fact 5 issues that are in this case. You, the members of the jury, 6 are the sole and exclusive judges of the facts. You pass upon 7 the weight of the evidence, you determine the credibility of 8 the witnesses, you resolve such conflicts as there may be in 9 the testimony, and you draw whatever reasonable inferences you 10 decide to draw from the facts as you determine them.

11 I will later discuss with you how to pass upon the 12 credibility or the believability of witnesses.

13 In determining the facts, you must rely on your own 14 recollection of the evidence. What the lawyers have said in 15 their opening statements, in their closing arguments, in their 16 objections, or in their questions is not evidence. In this 17 connection, you should bear in mind that a question put to a 18 witness is never evidence. It's only the answer that is 19 evidence. Nor is anything I may have said or done during the 20 trial or may say during these instructions with respect to a 21 fact matter to be taken in substitution for your own 22 independent recollection. What I say is not evidence.

23 The evidence before you consists of the answers given 24 by the witnesses -- the testimony they gave, as you recall 25 it -- and the exhibits that were received in evidence.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5592

14P8RAJ1

Charge

1 The evidence does not include questions. Only the 2 answers are evidence. But you may not consider any answer that 3 I directed you to disregard or that I directed struck from the 4 record. Do not consider those answers.

5 You may also consider the stipulations that the 6 parties entered into, some of which were read to the jury.

7 Since you are the sole and exclusive judges of the 8 facts, I don't mean to indicate any opinion as to the facts or 9 what your verdict should be. The rulings I have made during 10 the trial are not any indication of my views as to what your 11 decision should be as to whether or not the guilt of the 12 defendant has been proven beyond a reasonable doubt.

13 You are to perform the duty of finding the facts
14 without bias or prejudice to either party. You are to perform 15 your final duty in an attitude of complete fairness and 16 impartiality.

17 The case is important to the government, for the 18 enforcement of criminal laws is a matter of prime concern to 19 the community. Equally, it is important to the defendant, who 20 is charged with serious crimes.

21 The fact that the prosecution is brought in the name
22 of the United States of America entitles the government to no 23 greater consideration than that accorded to any other party in 24 a lawsuit. By the same token, it is entitled to no less 25 consideration. The parties, whether the government or the

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

Charge

1 individual, stand as equals before the bar of justice.

2 The indictment which you have heard about is the means 3 by which the government notifies a defendant of the charges
4 against him and brings him to court. It is only an accusation 5 and nothing more. It is not evidence, and you are not to give 6 it any weight in reaching your verdict. The defendant has 7 pleaded not guilty to the charges in the indictment.

8 Because the defendant has pleaded not guilty, the 9 burden is on the prosecution to prove guilt beyond a reasonable 10 doubt. This burden always remains with the government and 11 never shifts to the defendant. Indeed, the law never imposes 12 upon a criminal defendant the burden of proving his innocence 13 or even the duty of calling any witness or producing any 14 evidence at all.

15 The law presumes the defendant innocent of all charges
16 against him. I therefore instruct you that you must presume 17 the defendant innocent throughout your deliberations until such 18 time, if ever, as you as a jury are unanimously satisfied that 19 the government has proven guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

20 The defendant began the trial with a clean slate.
21 This presumption of innocence alone is sufficient to acquit him 22 unless you are unanimously convinced beyond a reasonable doubt 23 of the defendant's guilt on a particular count, after a careful 24 and impartial consideration of all of the evidence against him.
25 If the government fails to overcome the presumption of

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5594

14P8RAJ1

Charge

1 innocence and does not sustain its burden of proving guilt
2 beyond a reasonable doubt with respect to the defendant on a 3 particular count, you must acquit the defendant on that count.

4 The presumption of innocence was with the defendant
5 when the trial began and remains with him now even as I speak 6 and will continue into your deliberations until such time as 7 you are convinced the government has proven guilt beyond a 8 reasonable doubt.

9 I have said that the government must prove guilt
10 beyond a reasonable doubt. The question then is: What is a 11 reasonable doubt? The words almost define themselves. It is a 12 doubt based upon reason and common sense. It is a doubt that a 13 reasonable party has after carefully weighing all of the 14 evidence. It is a doubt that would cause a reasonable person 15 to hesitate to act in a matter of importance in his or her 16 personal life. Proof beyond a reasonable doubt must, 17 therefore, be proof of such a convincing character that a 18 reasonable person would not hesitate to rely and act upon it in 19 the most important of his or other own affairs. A reasonable 20 doubt is not caprice or whim; it is not speculation or 21 suspicion. It is not an excuse to avoid the performance of an 22 unpleasant duty. And it is not sympathy.

23 In a criminal case, the burden at all times upon the 24 government is to prove beyond a reasonable doubt the 25 defendant's guilt. The law does not, however, require that the

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5595

Charge

1 government prove guilt beyond all possible doubt; proof beyond 2 a reasonable doubt is sufficient to convict. The burden never 3 shifts to the defendant, which means that it is always the 4 government's burden to prove each element of the crimes charged 5 beyond a reasonable doubt.

6 A reasonable doubt may arise from evidence or lack of 7 evidence. This does not mean simply the number of witnesses or 8 documents or the length of the trial but rather the quality of 9 the evidence that you have heard. If, after fair and impartial 10 consideration of all of the evidence you have a reasonable 11 doubt, it is your duty to acquit the defendant. On the other 12 hand, if after fair and impartial consideration of all the 13 evidence, you are satisfied of the defendant's guilt beyond a 14 reasonable doubt, you should vote to convict. I am now going 15 to speak to you further about the evidence that can be used in 16 reaching this determination.

17 You will remember, at the beginning of the trial, I 18 said there are two types of evidence which you may properly use 19 in deciding whether a defendant is guilty or not guilty:
20 Direct evidence and circumstantial evidence. Direct evidence 21 is evidence that proves a disputed fact directly. For example, 22 what a witness testifies as to what he or she saw, heard, felt, 23 touched, this is direct evidence.

24 Circumstantial evidence, in contrast, is evidence that 25 tends to prove a disputed fact by proof of other facts. You

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5596

Charge

1 will remember the simple example I gave you at the beginning of 2 the trial. It was sunny outside. You came into the courtroom 3 and you couldn't see out the window, but an hour later two or 4 three people walk in shaking wet umbrellas. You don't know by 5 your direct senses that it was raining out, but you could infer 6 on that circumstantial evidence that in fact that was the case.
7 And that's all there is to circumstantial evidence.

8 Circumstantial evidence is of no less value than 9 direct evidence; for it is a general rule that the law makes no 10 distinction between direct and circumstantial evidence, but 11 simply requires that before convicting a defendant, the jury 12 must be satisfied of the defendant's guilt beyond a reasonable 13 doubt from all of the evidence in the case.

14 During the trial you may have heard the attorneys use 15 the term "inference" and in their arguments they have asked you 16 to infer, on the basis of your reason, experience, and common 17 sense, from one or more established facts, the existence of 18 some other fact. An inference is not a suspicion or a guess.
19 It is a reasoned, logical decision to conclude that a disputed 20 fact exists on the basis of another fact that you know exists.
21 There are times when different inferences may be drawn from 22 facts whether by direct or circumstantial evidence. The 23 government may ask you to draw one set of inferences, the 24 defendant may ask you to draw another. It is for you and you 25 alone to decide what inferences you will draw in this case.

1 Some inferences are impermissible. I instruct you not 2 to draw the following two inferences. First, you may not infer 3 that the defendant was guilty of participating in criminal 4 conduct merely from the fact that he associated or spoke with 5 other people who were guilty of wrongdoing. Second, you may 6 not infer that the defendant is guilty just because he was 7 present at the time a crime was being committed and had 8 knowledge that it was being committed.

9 The defendant is charged only with the crimes alleged 10 in the indictment. He is not charged with any other crimes.
11 You have heard evidence of other acts allegedly committed by 12 various individuals. I want to emphasize to you now that you 13 are to consider only the charges alleged in the indictment, and 14 you must return a verdict only as to those charges.

15 You may not draw any inference, favorable or 16 unfavorable, towards the government or the defendant from the 17 fact that there may be persons who have not been tried as a 18 defendant in this case or that certain persons were not named 19 as co-conspirators, or were named as co-conspirators but not 20 indicted. Therefore, you may not consider these facts in any 21 way in reaching your verdict as to this defendant. You also 22 may not speculate as to the reasons why other persons are not 23 on trial. Your task is limited to considering the charges 24 contained in the indictment and the defendant before you.

25 The fact that one party called more witnesses and

Charge

1 introduced more evidence than the other does not mean that you
2 should necessarily find the facts in favor of the side offering 3 the most evidence. By the same token, you do not have to 4 accept the testimony of any witness who has not been 5 contradicted or impeached if you find that the witness was not 6 credible. You also have to decide which witness to believe and 7 what facts are true. To do this you must look at all the 8 evidence, drawing your own conclusions and using your own 9 common sense and personal experience. After examining all the 10 evidence, you may decide that the party calling the most 11 witnesses has not persuaded you because you do not believe the 12 witnesses or because you do believe the fewer witnesses called 13 by the other side.

14 In a moment I will discuss the criteria for evaluating 15 credibility. For the moment, however, you should keep in mind 16 that the burden is always on the government and the defendant 17 is not required to call any witnesses or offer any evidence, 18 since he is presumed to be innocent.

19 The evidence in this case consists of the sworn 20 testimony of the witnesses, on both direct and 21 cross-examination, the exhibits received in evidence, the 22 stipulations of the parties, and judicially noticed facts.

23 In contrast, you may not consider exhibits that were 24 marked for identification but not received into evidence. Only 25 those exhibits actually received may be considered as evidence.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5599

1 Similarly, some testimony has been excluded, stricken,
2 or you have been instructed to disregard the testimony. As I 3 said earlier, in addition, some evidence has been received for 4 limited purposes only. When I have given you a limiting 5 instruction as to such evidence, you must follow that 6 instruction and consider such evidence for only the limited 7 purpose that I allowed.

8 Obviously anything that you may have seen or heard 9 outside the courtroom is not evidence.

10 Nothing I have said or done during the trial should be 11 used to determine whether or not the government has met its 12 burden of proof. I have no personal view as to whether the 13 government has met its burden and you should not infer that I 14 do from anything that I have said or done.

15 It must be clear to you by now that counsel for the 16 parties are asking you to draw very different conclusions about 17 various factual issues in the case. An important part of that 18 decision will involve making judgments about the testimony of 19 witnesses you have listened to and observed. In making these 20 judgments, you should carefully scrutinize all of the testimony 21 of each witness, the circumstances under which the witness has 22 testified, and any other matter in evidence that may help you 23 to decide the truth and the importance of each witness's
24 testimony.

25 Your decision whether or not to believe a witness may

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5600

Charge

1 depend on how that witness impressed you. Was the witness 2 candid, frank and forthright, or did the witness seem to be 3 evasive or suspect in some way? How did the way the witness 4 testified on direct examination compare to how the witness 5 testified on cross-examination? Was the witness consistent or 6 contradictory? Did the witness appear to know what he or she 7 was talking about? Did the witness strike you as someone who 8 was trying to report his or her knowledge accurately? These 9 are examples of the kinds of common sense questions you should 10 ask yourselves in deciding whether a witness is truthful or 11 not.

12 In addition, you may consider whether the witness had 13 any possible bias or relationship with the party, or any 14 possible interest in the outcome of the case. Such a bias or 15 relationship does not necessarily make the witness unworthy of 16 belief. They are simply factors that you may consider. If a 17 witness made statements in the past that are inconsistent with 18 his or her testimony during the trial concerning facts that are 19 at issue here, you may consider that fact in deciding how much 20 of the testimony, if any, to believe.

21 In making this determination, you may consider whether 22 the witness purposefully made a false statement or whether it 23 was an innocent mistake. You may also consider whether the 24 inconsistency concerns an important fact or merely a small 25 detail, as well as whether the witness had an explanation for

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5601

14P8RAJ1 Charge

1 the inconsistency, and if so, whether that explanation appealed 2 to your common sense.

3 If you find that a witness has testified falsely as to 4 any material fact, or if you find that a witness has been 5 previously untruthful when testifying under oath or otherwise, 6 you may reject the witness's testimony in its entirety, or you 7 may accept only those parts of it that you believe to be 8 truthful and that are corroborated by other independent 9 evidence.

10 You should also consider whether the witness had an 11 opportunity to observe the facts that he or she testified 12 about, and whether the witness's recollection of the facts 13 stands up in light of the other evidence in the case.

14 In other words, what you must do in deciding 15 credibility is to size a person up just as you would in any 16 important matter where you're trying to decide if a person is 17 truthful, straightforward and accurate in his or her 18 recollection.

19 Now, a witness may be discredited or impeached by 20 contradictory evidence, or by evidence that at some other time 21 the witness has said or done something that is inconsistent 22 with the witness's present testimony. You may also consider a 23 witness's earlier silence or inaction that is inconsistent with 24 his or her courtroom testimony to determine whether the witness 25 has been impeached. If you believe that any witness has been

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5602

Charge

1 impeached, and thus discredited, then it is for you to give the 2 testimony of that witness as much or as little weight, if any, 3 as you think it deserves.

4 It is for you, the jury, and for you alone, not the 5 lawyers, or the witnesses, or me as the judge, to decide the 6 credibility of witnesses who appeared here and the weight that 7 their testimony should receive.

8 In evaluating credibility of the witnesses, you should 9 take into account any evidence that the witness who testified 10 may benefit in some way from the outcome of the case. Such an 11 interest in the outcome creates a motive to testify falsely and 12 may sway the witness to testify in a way that advances his own 13 interests. Therefore, if you find that any witness whose 14 testimony you are considering may have an interest in the 15 outcome of this trial, then you should bear that factor in mind 16 when evaluating the credibility of his or her testimony and 17 accept it with great care.

18 This is not to suggest that every witness who has an 19 interest in the outcome of the case will testify falsely. It 20 is for you to decide to what extent, if at all, the witness's 21 interest has affected or colored his or her testimony.

22 You have heard the testimony of law enforcement 23 witnesses. The fact that a witness may be employed as a law 24 enforcement official or employee does not mean that his or her 25 testimony is necessarily deserving of more or less

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5603

Charge

1 consideration or greater or lesser weight than that of any 2 ordinary witness.

3 In this context, defense counsel is allowed to try to 4 attack the credibility of such a witness on the ground that his 5 or her testimony may be colored by a personal or professional 6 interest in the outcome of the case.

7 It is your decision, after reviewing all of the 8 evidence, whether to accept the testimony of a law enforcement 9 witness, as it is with every other type of witness, and to give 10 that testimony the weight that you believe it deserves.

11 The defendant has called a witness during the trial 12 who testified to his opinion of the defendant's good character 13 and to his reputation in the community. This testimony is not 14 to be taken by you as the witness's opinion as to whether the 15 defendant is guilty or not guilty. That question is for you 16 alone to determine. You should, however, consider this 17 character evidence together with all the other facts and all 18 the other evidence in the case in determining whether the 19 defendant is guilty or not guilty of the charges.

20 You have heard some testimony during the trial that 21 witnesses have discussed the facts of the case and their 22 testimony with the lawyers before the witnesses appeared in 23 court. Although you may consider that fact when you are 24 evaluating a witness's credibility, I should tell you that 25 there is nothing either unusual or improper about a witness

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5604

Charge

1 meeting with lawyers before testifying so that the witness can 2 be aware of the subjects he will be questioned about, focus on 3 those subjects and have the opportunity to review relevant 4 exhibits before being questioned about them. Such consultation
5 helps conserve your time and the Court's time. In fact, it 6 would be unusual for a lawyer to call a witness without such 7 consultation.

8 The weight you give to the fact or the nature of the 9 witness's preparation for his or her testimony and what 10 inferences you draw from such preparation are matters 11 completely within your discretion.

12 As you know, the defendant did not testify in this 13 case. Under our Constitution, the defendant has no obligation 14 to testify or to present any evidence, because it is the 15 government's burden to prove the defendant guilty beyond a 16 reasonable doubt. That burden remains with the government 17 throughout the entire trial and never shifts to the defendant.
18 A defendant is never required to prove that he is not guilty.

19 You may not attach any significance to the fact that 20 the defendant did not testify. No adverse inference against 21 him may be drawn by you because he did not take the witness 22 stand.

1 THE COURT: You may not consider this against the 2 defendant in any way in your deliberations in the jury room.
3 Some of the testimony given by defendant's witness, 4 Professor Jarrell, was known as expert testimony about the 5 operation of the securities market. An expert witness is a 6 witness who by education or experience has acquired learning or 7 experience in a science or specialized area of knowledge. Such 8 witnesses are permitted to give their opinions as to relevant 9 matters in which they profess to be experts and to give the 10 reasons for their opinions. Expert testimony is presented to 11 you on the theory that someone who is experienced in the field 12 can assist you in understanding the evidence or in reaching an 13 independent decision on the facts.
14 Now, your role in judging credibility applies to 15 experts just the same as it does other witnesses. You should 16 consider the expert opinions that were received in evidence in 17 this case and give them as much or as little weight as you 18 think they deserve. If you should decide that the opinion of 19 an expert was not based on sufficient education or experience 20 or on sufficient data or if you should conclude that the 21 trustworthiness or credibility of an expert is questionable for 22 any reason or the opinion of the expert was outweighed in your 23 judgment by other evidence in the case then you might disregard 24 the opinion of the expert entirely or in part. On the other 25 hand, if you find the opinion of an expert is based on

1 sufficient data, education and experience, and the other 2 evidence does not give you any reason to doubt his conclusions, 3 you would be justified in placing great reliance on his 4 testimony.

5 You've also heard witnesses who testified that were 6 actually involved in planning and carrying out certain of the 7 crimes charged against the defendant in the indictment.
8 There's been a great deal said about these so-called 9 cooperating witnesses in the summation of counsel and about 10 whether you should believe them. Experience will tell you that 11 the government frequently must rely on the testimony of 12 witnesses who admit participating in the alleged crimes at 13 issue. The government must take its witnesses as it finds them 14 and frequently must use such testimony in a criminal 15 prosecution because otherwise it would be difficult or 16 impossible to detect and prosecute wrongdoers.

17 For these very reasons the law allows the use of 18 cooperating witness testimony. Indeed, it is the law in 19 federal courts that the testimony of a cooperating witness may 20 be enough in itself for conviction if the jury believes that 21 the testimony establishes guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

22 However, because of the possible interest of a 23 cooperating witness in testifying, such testimony should be 24 scrutinized with special care and caution. The fact that a 25 witness is a cooperating witness can be considered by you as

(212) 805-0300

1 bearing upon that witness' credibility. However, it does not 2 follow that simply because a person has admitted to 3 participating in one or more crimes that he is incapable of 4 giving a truthful version of what happened.

5 Like the testimony of any witness, cooperating 6 witnesses' testimony should be given such weight as it deserves 7 in light of the facts and the circumstances before you, taking 8 into account the witness' demeanor, candor, the strength and 9 accuracy of the witness' recollection, his background and the 10 extent to which his testimony is or is not corroborated by 11 other evidence. You may consider whether cooperating 12 witnesses, like any other witnesses called in this case, have 13 an interest in the outcome of this case and if so, whether it 14 has affected their testimony.

15 You heard testimony about agreements between the 16 government and three of the cooperating witnesses. The 17 government is permitted to enter into these kinds of 18 agreements. However, you should bear in mind that a witness 19 who has entered into such an agreement has an interest in this 20 case different from any ordinary witness. A cooperating 21 witness who realizes that he may be able to obtain his own 22 freedom or receive a lighter sentence has different motives 23 than any ordinary witness. In evaluating the testimony of such 24 a witness you should ask yourself whether the witness would 25 benefit more by lying or by telling the truth. Was the

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

1 cooperating witness's testimony made up in any way because the 2 accomplice believed or hoped that he would somehow receive 3 favorable treatment by testifying falsely, or did he believe 4 that his interests would be best served by testifying 5 truthfully? If you believe that the witness was motivated by 6 hopes of personal gain, was the motivation one which caused him
7 to lie or was it one which caused him to tell the truth? Did 8 this motivation color his testimony?

9 In sum, you should look at all the evidence in 10 deciding what credence and what weight if any you will give to 11 the cooperating witnesses. If you find that the testimony was 12 false, you should reject it. However, if after a cautious and 13 careful examination of the cooperating witness' testimony and 14 demeanor on the witness stand you are satisfied that the 15 witness told the truth, you should accept that he's credible
16 and act upon it accordingly. As with any witness, let me 17 emphasize that the issue of credibility need not be decided on 18 an all-or-nothing basis. Even if you find that a witness 19 testified falsely in one part you may still accept his or her 20 testimony in other parts or you may disregard all of it. That 21 is a determination entirely for the jury to make.

22 You have heard testimony from the cooperating 23 witnesses that they have pleaded guilty to charges arising in 24 part out of the same facts that are at issue in this case. You 25 are instructed, however, that you are to draw no conclusion or

1 inference of any kind about the guilt of Mr. Rajaratnam merely 2 from the fact that a prosecution witness pled guilty to similar 3 charges. The decision of that witness to plead guilty was a 4 personal decision that witness made about his or her own guilt, 5 not the defendant's. It may not be used by you in any way as 6 evidence against or unfavorable to the defendant on trial here.

7 In this case, you also heard evidence in the form of 8 stipulations. A stipulation is an agreement between the 9 parties that a certain fact is true, and you must regard such 10 agreed facts as true.

11 You have seen during the course of the trial certain 12 charts and summaries that were placed before you. The charts 13 and summaries were shown to you in order to make the other 14 evidence more meaningful and to aid you in considering the 15 evidence. They are no better than the testimony or the 16 documents upon which they were based. Therefore, you are to 17 give no greater consideration to those schedules or summaries 18 than you would give to the evidence upon which they are based.
19 It is for you to decide whether the charts, schedules or 20 summaries correctly present the information contained in the 21 testimony and the exhibits on which the summaries were based.
22 You are entitled to consider the charts, schedules and 23 summaries if you find they are of assistance to you and if you 24 find they are based on the evidence.

25 There were tape recordings of telephone conversations

1 and transcripts of those recordings that were admitted into 2 evidence. Whether you approve or disapprove of the recording 3 of those conversations, that may not enter into your 4 deliberations. I instruct you that these recordings were made 5 in a lawful manner and the government's use of this evidence is 6 lawful. In connection with these tapes, the parties have been 7 permitted to hand out and display transcripts of the matters
8 spoken of on the recordings. These documents were given to you 9 as an aid or a guide to you in listening to the recordings.
10 However, the transcripts themselves are not evidence. It's the 11 tapes that is the evidence in this case. You alone make your 12 own interpretation of what appears on the recordings based on 13 what you heard. If you think you heard something different 14 than what appeared in the transcript, it's what you heard that 15 is controlling. Let me again say that you, the jury, are the 16 sole deciders of the facts.

17 As I mentioned, defendant has been charged formally in 18 an indictment. An indictment is a charge or accusation. It is 19 not evidence. Before you begin your deliberations, you will be 20 provided with an indictment containing the charges in this 21 case. Therefore I won't read the entire indictment to you at 22 this time, but I'll first summarize some of the offenses 23 charged in the indictment and then I'll explain the elements of 24 each of the offenses charged in some detail.

25 The indictment contains 14 charges or counts. Each

1 count charges a separate crime. Although there are facts in 2 common to different counts, each count must be considered by 3 you separately. You must return a separate verdict as to each 4 count.

5 Counts One through Five of the indictment charge Mr.
6 Rajaratnam with conspiracy to violate the federal statute that 7 makes it unlawful to commit securities fraud, specifically a 8 certain kind of securities fraud called insider trading. Count 9 One charges that Mr. Rajaratnam conspired with certain then 10 current and former Galleon employees to obtain, share and trade 11 on material, non-public information about various companies 12 which the indictment refers to as inside information.

13 The indictment alleges that this inside information
14 related to merger and acquisition activity, quarterly earnings 15 announcements, business updates and other corporate events and 16 was obtained in violation of duties of trust and confidence, 17 that the sources of that information owed to their employers 18 and others.

19 Count Two charges that Mr. Rajaratnam conspired with 20 Roomy Khan to obtain and trade on inside information about 21 various companies, including Polycom, Hilton and Google.

22 Count Three charges that Mr. Rajaratnam conspired with 23 Rajiv Goel, an employee of Intel to obtain and trade on inside 24 information about various companies, including Intel, Clearwire 25 and People Support.

5 Count Five charges that Mr. Rajaratnam conspired with 6 Danielle Chiesi, an employee of a hedge fund called New Castle, 7 to obtain and trade on inside information about various 8 companies, including Akamai and AMD. Those are the conspiracy 9 counts.

10 Counts Six through Fourteen of the indictment are the 11 substantive counts and charge Mr. Rajaratnam with specific 12 instances of insider trading in some of the companies I just 13 mentioned to you; Clearwire, Akamai, People Support, ATI and 14 Intel.

15 As I just indicated, the indictment charges the 16 defendant with a total of 14 counts. Each count charges a

21 conspiring or agreeing with others to trade on inside
22 information. Counts Six through Fourteen are the substantive 23 counts and charge the defendant with actually making trades in

1 counts, Counts Six through Fourteen, first because that will 2 make it easier to understand my charges on the conspiracy
3 counts.

4 Now, Mr. Rajaratnam denies that he committed insider 5 trading or conspired to commit insider trading as charged in 6 the indictment. He contends, one, that he did not possess 7 material, non-public information about any company at issue in 8 this case; two, that he did not trade in any stock on the basis 9 of material, non-public information provided by anyone in 10 breach of a duty; three, that he acted in good faith and did 11 not agree with any other person to obtain material, non-public 12 information about any company at issue in this case; four, that 13 he did not convey a benefit to anyone in return for that person 14 breaching his duty to his employer or client by disclosing 15 information; five, that the alleged inside information in this 16 case was not material, non-public information because it was 17 either publicly available through sources such as press
18 releases, Securities and Exchange Commission filings, trade 19 publications, analyst reports, newspapers, magazines, 20 television, radio or word of mouth and was not material because 21 it was not information that a reasonable investor would have 22 considered significant in deciding whether to buy, sell or hold 23 securities or at what price to buy or sell.

24 The defense further contends that Mr. Rajaratnam was a 25 professional stock analyst, portfolio manager and investment

1 advisor. As such, Mr. Rajaratnam's job was to research, 2 analyze and trade in stock on behalf of his investors. Mr.
3 Rajaratnam contends that he had a duty to trade in stocks that 4 he thought had attractive investment potential, that all 5 reasonable investors seek to obtain properly as much 6 information as they can before trading a stock, and that he was 7 legally obligated to do so in order to properly advise his 8 clients. He contends that he properly sought to obtain 9 information about the companies that he invested in on behalf 10 of his clients.

11 The law permits analysts and investment advisers to 12 meet and speak with corporate officers and other insiders in 13 order to ferret out and analyze information useful in making 14 investment decisions. As I will instruct you in greater 15 detail, the receipt and use of material, non-public information 16 does not itself violate the law. You must also find that the 17 inside information was improperly provided to the defendant by 18 an insider or tipper in violation of that insider's duty of 19 trust to a company that owned the information, and, further, 20 that the defendant as the tippee knew that the information was 21 disclosed to him by the insider or tipper in violation of a 22 duty.

23 Counts Six through Fourteen of the indictment charge 24 the defendant with violating a statute that prohibits a type of 1 practices by those selling or buying securities on the 2 securities exchanges. Among the primary objectives of the 3 Securities Exchange Act of 1934 are the maintenance of fair and 4 honest security markets and the elimination of manipulative 5 practices intended to distort the fair and just price of a 6 stock. Congress recognized that any deceptive or manipulative 7 practice that influenced or related to trading activity 8 undermined the function and purpose of a free market.

9 In order to find the defendant guilty of the 10 substantive crime of securities fraud as alleged in Counts Six 11 through Fourteen, you must find that the government has proven 12 each of the following elements beyond a reasonable doubt:

13 First, that in connection with the purchase or sale of 14 a security specified in the count you're considering, the 15 defendant employed a device, scheme or artifice to defraud or 16 engaged in an act, practice or course of business that operated 17 or would operate as a fraud or deceit upon the person.

18 Second, that the defendant acted willfully, knowingly 19 and with the intent to defraud, and, third, that the defendant 20 knowingly used or caused to be used any means or instruments of 21 transportation or communication in interstate commerce or the 22 use of the mails or any facility of any national securities 23 exchange in furtherance of the fraudulent conduct.

24 Let me talk about the first element of the alleged 25 crime, and that is the existence of an insider trading scheme.

1 The first element that the government must prove beyond a 2 reasonable doubt is that a connection with the purchase or sale 3 of the security specified in the substantive count of the 4 indictment you're considering the defendant employed a device, 5 scheme or artifice to defraud or engaged in an act, practice or 6 course of business that operated or would operate as a fraud or 7 deceit upon some person. The specific scheme that the 8 defendant is charged with committing in this indictment is 9 known as insider trading. An insider is one who comes into 10 possession of material, non-public information about a specific 11 stock by virtue of a relationship that that person has of trust 12 and confidence. If a person has such material, non-public 13 information by virtue of a position of trust or confidence and 14 his position of trust and confidence prevents him from 15 disclosing that information, the law then forbids that person 16 from trading in the securities in question or assisting others 17 to trade in securities on the basis of that information.

18 With respects to Counts Eleven and Twelve regarding 19 trading in People Support, the government alleges that Mr.
20 Rajaratnam was an insider.

21 The law also prohibits a person who is not actually an 22 insider from trading in securities based on material, 23 non-public information if the person knows that the information 24 he has received from an insider or tipper was material, 25 non-public information that was intended to be kept

1 confidential and was disclosed in violation of a duty of trust 2 or confidence. With respect to Counts Six through Ten and 3 Thirteen and Fourteen, Mr. Rajaratnam is charged with insider 4 trading as a tpee, that is, based on the allegation that he 5 received material, non-public information from other 6 individuals, so-called insiders or tippers, and wrongfully used 7 it for his own benefit when he knew that the information had 8 been disclosed in violation of a duty of trust or confidence.

9 A person, a tpee, who receives material, non-public 10 information engages in an act of fraud or deceit under the 11 federal securities laws if he buys or sells securities based on 12 material, non-public information that he knows was disclosed by 13 another person, the insider or the tipper, in breach of that 14 person's duty of trust and confidence.

15 With respect to Counts Six through Ten and Counts
16 Thirteen through Fourteen, in order to find that the government 17 has established this first of the three essential elements of 18 the crime of insider trading, you must find beyond a reasonable 19 doubt, A, that the insider or tipper involved in the counts you 20 are considering had a relationship of trust and confidence with 21 the company that owned the business information, and that as a 22 result of that relationship was entrusted with information with 23 the reasonable expectation that he would keep it confidential 24 and not use it for personal benefit; B, that the insider or 25 tipper, directly or indirectly breached that trust by

1 disclosing material, non-public information and receiving a 2 personal benefit for doing so; C, that the defendant knew that 3 the information had been disclosed by an insider or tipper in 4 breach of a duty to the owner of material information and, D, 5 that the defendant used the material, non-public information to 6 purchase or sell the security you are considering.

7 With respect to Counts Eleven and Twelve involving 8 People Support, Mr. Rajaratnam, as I said, is alleged to be an 9 insider. On these counts the government must prove beyond a 10 reasonable doubt that Mr. Rajaratnam had a relationship of 11 trust and confidence with People Support and as a result of 12 that relationship was entrusted with information with a 13 reasonable expectation that he would keep it confidential and 14 would not use it for personal benefit. With respect to these 15 counts related to People Support, you must also find that the 16 defendant used information that he knew was material, 17 non-public information regarding People Support, and the 18 purchase and sale of People Support stock.

19 With respect to the first factor, A, the relationship 20 of trust and confidence, you must find that the insider or 21 tipper had a fiduciary or other relationship of trust and 22 confidence with the company that owned the business information 23 at issue in the count you are considering. Fiduciary means 24 characterized by faith, trust and confidence. Depending on the 25 circumstances, such a relationship can arise, for example, out

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

1 of a person's employment relationship with a company or out of 2 a client relationship or out of a relationship as a board 3 member to a company. The question for you to consider is 4 whether the owner of the business information, the company at 5 issue in the count, expected the insider or tipper to keep that 6 information confidential and to refrain from improperly 7 disclosing it.

8 From now on in these instructions I'll refer to the 9 insider or the tipper as being simply the insider.

10 Whether a relationship gives rise to a duty of 11 confidentiality is ultimately a question of fact which depends 12 on the particulars of the interaction between the parties and 13 the nature of their relationship. That relationship may be 14 either formal or informal, and a duty of confidentiality need 15 not have been expressed explicitly or in writing. It may be 16 inferred, for example, from the nature and circumstances of the 17 relationship between the insider at issue and the company or 18 owner of the business information at issue in the count you are 19 considering.

20 If you find that the insider at issue in the count you 21 are considering had a fiduciary or other relationship of trust 22 and confidentiality with the owner of the information, then you 23 must next consider whether the insider breached that duty of 24 trust and confidentiality by disclosing material, non-public 25 information and receiving a personal benefit for doing so.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5621

14PFRAJ2

1 In order to find that the insider breached his duty of 2 trust or confidence you must be persuaded beyond a reasonable 3 doubt that the information disclosed was non-public at the time 4 it was disclosed. Information is non-public if it is not 5 available to the public through such sources as press releases, 6 Securities and Exchange Commission filings, trade publications, 7 analyst reports, newspapers, magazines, television, radio or 8 word of mouth. It is important to recognize, however, that 9 whether information is public or non-public does not turn only 10 on whether it has appeared in a newspaper, whether there has 11 been a public announcement or how many people have been made 12 aware of it. Sometimes a corporation is willing to make 13 information available to securities analysts or prospective 14 investors who ask for it, even though it may never have 15 appeared in any newspaper or other publication. On the other 16 hand, the company may not have made available information that 17 is more specific and more private than that which has appeared 18 in a newspaper or other public medium. The keyword is whether 19 the information is available. If the information is out there 20 in a public media or in SEC filings open to the public or if 21 the company would give it to people who would ask for it, it is 22 public. On the other hand, if the information is not generally 23 available and the company would not make it available in 24 response to a request, then it is non-public rather than 25 public. Remember, whether information is public or non-public

(212) 805-0300

1 is an issue of fact for you to decide.

2 In order to find that the insider you are considering 3 breached his duty of trust, you must also be persuaded beyond a 4 reasonable doubt on the count that you're considering that the 5 information disclosed was material at the time that it was 6 disclosed. Within the particular context of the purchase and 7 sale of securities, material information is information which a 8 reasonable investor would have considered significant in 9 deciding whether to buy, sell or hold securities and at what 10 price to buy or sell. Put another way, there must be a 11 substantial likelihood that the fact would have been viewed by 12 a reasonable investor as having significantly altered the total 13 mix of information then available.

14 The government must also prove beyond a reasonable 15 doubt that the insider who disclosed the information personally 16 benefited in some way, directly or indirectly, from disclosing 17 that information. Benefit may be monetary or financial. The 18 benefit, however, need not be a specific or tangible benefit 19 received in exchange for the information. It can also include 20 a reputational benefit that will translate into future 21 earnings, or the satisfaction which comes from making a gift to 22 a relative or friend. Evidence of the relationship between the 23 insider and the recipient of the insider's intention may be 24 circumstantial evidence that the insider receive a benefit.
25 But whether the insider benefited directly or indirectly,

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5623

Jury charge

1 tangibly or intangibly, remains a question of fact for you, the 2 jury, to decide.

3 To meet its burden of establishing an insider trading 4 scheme, the government must also prove beyond a reasonable 5 doubt that Mr. Rajaratnam knew that the information had been 6 disclosed by an insider in breach of a duty of trust and 7 confidence. The mere receipt of material, non-public 8 information by the defendant from an insider is not sufficient.
9 The government must show that Mr. Rajaratnam knew that the 10 information was material, non-public information that if 11 disclosed by an insider would directly or indirectly obtain 12 some personal benefit from the disclosure.

13 The government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt 14 that the defendant used material, non-public information in 15 connection with the purchase or sale of the stock identified in 16 the substantive count that you are considering. A person uses 17 material, non-public information in connection with a stock 18 purchase or sale if that information is a factor in his 19 decision to buy or sell. Now, how do you tell whether a person 20 who has material, non-public information and who buys or sells 21 a stock while in possession of that information uses the 22 information in doing so? Bear in mind that the law requires 23 only that the information be a factor in the decision to buy 24 and sell. It need not be the only consideration. Consider how 25 significant the information would be in deciding upon whether

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

Jury charge

1 to buy or sell. It need not be the only consideration. In 2 many circumstances, the more important the information, the 3 more likely it is that the information was a factor in the 4 decision. If after considering all the circumstances you are 5 persuaded beyond a reasonable doubt that material, non-public 6 information given to the defendant was a factor, however small, 7 in the defendant's decision to purchase or sell stock, then 8 this element of the fraud will have been established.

9 I've talked about the proof of the existence of a 10 fraudulent insider trading scheme, which is the first element 11 of proving securities fraud. The second element of the 12 offenses charged in the substantive Counts Six through Fourteen 13 is that the defendant participated in the insider trading 14 scheme alleged in a particular count knowingly, willfully and 15 with the intent to defraud. Knowingly means to act voluntarily 16 and deliberately, rather than mistakenly or inadvertently.
17 Willfully means to act knowingly and purposefully with an 18 intent to do something the law forbids, that is to say with bad 19 purpose either to disobey or disregard the law. Intent to 20 defraud in the context of securities laws means to act 21 knowingly and with the specific intent to deceive. To devise a 22 scheme to defraud is to concoct or plan it. To participate in 23 a scheme to defraud means to associate one's self with it with 24 a view and intent to make it succeed.

25 The question of the defendant's intent is a question

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5625

1 of fact that you are called upon to decide, just as you would 2 determine any other fact in the case. Intent to defraud 3 involves the state of a person's mind and the purpose with 4 which he acted at the time of acts in question occurred.
5 Direct proof of knowledge and fraudulent intent is almost never 6 available and need not exist to find that such intent was 7 present. It would be a rare case where it could be shown that 8 a person wrote or stated that as of a given time in the past he 9 committed an act with fraudulent intent. Such direct proof is 10 not required.

11 The ultimate facts of knowledge and criminal intent, 12 though subjective, may be established by circumstantial 13 evidence based upon a person's outward manifestations, his 14 words, his conduct, his acts and all the surrounding 15 circumstances disclosed by the evidence and the rational or 16 logical inferences that may be drawn from the evidence. Recall 17 that I've instructed you as to circumstantial evidence, and 18 that such evidence is of no less value than direct evidence.

19 Since an essential element of the crime charged is 20 intent to defraud it follows that good faith on the part of the 21 defendant is a complete defense to a charge of securities
22 fraud. It is for you to decide whether defendant acted in good 23 faith or not. If you decide that the defendant at all relevant 24 times acted in good faith, even if he was mistaken in that 25 belief, it is your duty to acquit him. That is because the law

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5626

1 is not violated if the defendant held an honest belief that his 2 actions were proper and not in furtherance of any illegal
3 venture. The defendant has no burden to establish the defense 4 of good faith. Rather, the burden is on the government to 5 prove criminal intent and the lack of good faith beyond a 6 reasonable doubt.

7 To conclude on this element, if you find that the 8 defendant was not a knowing participant in the scheme and 9 lacked the intent to defraud, you must acquit. Conversely, if 10 you find that the government has established beyond a 11 reasonable doubt not only the first element, namely, the 12 existence of a scheme to defraud, insider trading, but also the 13 second element, that the defendant was a knowing participant 14 and acted with intent to defraud, then you must consider the 15 third element as to which I will now instruct you.

16 The third and final element the government must prove 17 beyond a reasonable doubt with respect to each of the crimes
18 charged in Counts Six through Fourteen is that the defendant 19 knowingly used or caused to be used any instrumentality of 20 interstate commerce or a facility of a national securities 21 exchange in furtherance of that scheme to defraud. The New 22 York Stock Exchange, the National Association of Securities
23 Dealers automatic quotation system, which is known as NASDAQ, 24 the American Stock Exchange and the Chicago Board of Option
25 Exchanges are all national security exchanges.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5627

Jury charge

1 The government need not prove that the defendant 2 directly or personally was involved in any use of an 3 instrumentality of interstate commerce or use of any facility
4 of a national securities exchange. It is enough if you find 5 that the defendant by his acts directly or indirectly initiated 6 the steps or induced others to initiate steps that resulted in 7 a chain of cause and effect resulting in the use of an 8 instrumentality of interstate commerce or the use of a facility
9 of a national securities exchange. This could mean something 10 such as placing a telephone call or placing an order with a 11 trader or brokerage firm to buy or sell a security on a 12 national exchange. Similarly, if the defendant's conduct would 13 naturally or probably result in the use of an instrumentality 14 of interstate commerce, this third element would be satisfied.

15 The use of any instrumentality of interstate commerce 16 or of a national security exchange need not be central to the 17 execution of a scheme or even be incidental to such a scheme.
18 All that is required is that the use of any instrumentality of 19 interstate commerce bears some relation to the conduct of the 20 scheme or fraudulent conduct.

21 Let me shift now from the substantive counts of 22 security fraud to the conspiracy counts that are discussed in 23 Counts One through Five. I have just discussed the elements of 24 the substantive counts of securities fraud that are found in 25 Counts Six through Fourteen. I'll now talk about Counts One

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

1 through Five, which charges the defendant with five different 2 conspiracies in violation of Section 371 of Title 18 of the 3 United States Code.

4 This provides as follows: If two or more persons 5 conspire to commit any crime against the United States or to 6 defraud the United States or any agency thereof in any manner 7 or for any purpose, and one or more of such persons do any act 8 to effect the object of a conspiracy, each is guilty of a 9 crime.

10 The defendant is charged in Counts One through Five 11 with conspiracies to violate the Securities Exchange Act of 12 1934, which as you know makes it unlawful to commit securities 13 fraud, specifically the kind of securities fraud that I have 14 been discussing as insider trading. As I mentioned, Count One 15 charges that Mr. Rajaratnam conspired with certain then current 16 and former Galleon employees to obtain, share and trade on 17 material, non-public information about various companies.

18 Count Two charges that Mr. Rajaratnam conspired with 19 Roomy Khan to obtain and trade on material, non-public 20 information about various companies, including Polycom, Hilton 21 and Google.

22 Count Three charges that Mr. Rajaratnam conspired with 23 Rajiv Goel, an employee of Intel, to obtain and trade on 24 material, non-public information about various companies,
25 including Intel, Clearwire and People Support.

1 Count Four charges that Mr. Rajaratnam conspired with 2 Anil Kumar, an employee of McKinsey, to obtain and trade on 3 material, non-public information about various companies
4 including AMD, ATI and eBay. And finally, Count Five charges
5 that Mr. Rajaratnam conspired with Danielle Chiesi, an employee 6 of a hedge fund called New Castle, to obtain and trade on 7 material, non-public information about various companies
8 including Akamai and AMD.

9 The essence of the crime of conspiracy is an agreement 10 or understanding to violate another law. The crime of 11 conspiracy or unlawful agreement is an independent offense, 12 that is, the conspiracy is separate and distinct from the 13 actual violation of any specific federal law. The actual 14 violation of any specific federal law is what we've been 15 referring to as substantive crimes or substantive counts.
16 Counts One through Five charge conspiracies to commit the 17 substantive crime of insider trading whose elements I've 18 already described to you.

19 Congress has deemed it appropriate to make conspiracy 20 standing alone a separate crime, even if the object of the 21 conspiracy is not achieved. This is because collusive criminal 22 activity poses a greater threat to the public safety and 23 welfare than individual conduct and increases the likelihood of 24 success of a particular criminal venture. The law of 25 conspiracy serves ends different from and complementary to

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5630

Jury charge

1 those served by criminal prohibitions of the substantive 2 offense itself. Given that a conspiracy and a substantive 3 crime are distinct and independent offenses, you may find the 4 defendant guilty of the crime of conspiracy, even if you find 5 that he actually never committed the substantive crimes that 6 were the objects of the conspiracy. By the same token, you may 7 find the defendant guilty of committing one of the substantive 8 crimes even if you find the defendant not guilty of the 9 conspiracy charge.

10 To sustain its burden of proof with respect to a 11 conspiracy charge, the government must prove beyond a 12 reasonable doubt each of the following elements: First, the 13 government must prove that the conspiracy charged in a count 14 existed, that is, that there was an agreement or understanding 15 among at least two people to violate the laws of the United 16 States. Second, the government must prove that the defendant 17 knowingly and willfully became a member of that conspiracy.
18 Third, the government must prove that any one of the members of 19 the conspiracy, not necessarily the defendant, but any one 20 member of the conspiracy, knowingly committed at least one 21 overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy. Each of these 22 elements must be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt.

23 The first element the government must prove beyond a 24 reasonable doubt to establish the offense of conspiracy is that 25 two or more people entered the unlawful agreement charged in

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5631

Jury charge

1 the indictment. In other words, the government must prove that 2 there in fact was an agreement or understanding to violate 3 those provisions of the law which make it unlawful to engage in 4 insider trading. Conspiracy is a combination or agreement or 5 understanding of two or more people to accomplish by concerted 6 or collective action a criminal or unlawful purpose. With 7 respect to Counts One through Five, the unlawful purpose 8 alleged to have been the objects of the conspiracy were the 9 violations of those provisions of the law that make it illegal
10 to engage in insider trading. In other words, the government 11 alleges that there was an agreement or understanding and that 12 its objectives were to engage in insider trading.

13 Conspiracies are entirely distinct and separate 14 offenses from the substantive ends of insider trading. The 15 gist or the essence of the crime of conspiracy is an unlawful 16 agreement between two or more people to violate the law. The 17 ultimate success of the conspiracy or the actual commission of 18 the crime that is the object of the conspiracy is not required.

19 Now, to show a conspiracy, the government is not 20 required to show that two or more people sat around a table and 21 entered into a solemn act orally or in writing stating that 22 they have formed a conspiracy to violate the law and spelling
23 out all the details. Common sense tells you that when people 24 agree to enter into a criminal conspiracy, much is left to 25 unexpressed understanding. It is rare that a conspiracy can be

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5632

1 proven by direct evidence of an explicit agreement. In order
2 to show that a conspiracy existed, the evidence must show that 3 two or more persons in some way or manner, either explicitly or 4 implicitly, came to an understanding to violate the law and to 5 accomplish the unlawful plan. If you find beyond a reasonable 6 doubt that two or more persons came to an understanding, 7 express or implied, to violate the law and to accomplish an 8 unlawful plan, then the government will have sustained its 9 burden of proof as to this element.

10 In determining whether there has been an unlawful 11 agreement as alleged in Counts One through Five, you may 12 consider the actions of all the alleged co-conspirators that 13 were taken to carry out the apparent criminal purpose. The old 14 adage "actions speak louder than words" applies here. Often 15 the only evidence that is available with respect to the 16 existence of a conspiracy is that of the various acts on the 17 part of the alleged individual co-conspirators. When taken all 18 together and considered as a whole, however, that conduct may 19 warrant the inference that a conspiracy existed just as 20 conclusively as more direct proof such as the evidence of an 21 express agreement. So you must first determine whether or not 22 the proof established beyond a reasonable doubt the existence 23 of a conspiracy charged in a particular count in the 24 indictment.

25 In considering this first element, you should consider

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

5633

Jury charge

1 all the evidence that has been admitted with respect to the 2 conduct and statements of each alleged co-conspirator and any 3 inferences that may reasonably be drawn from that conduct and 4 those statements. It is sufficient to establish the existence 5 of a conspiracy, as I have already said, if from the proof of 6 all the relevant facts and circumstances you find beyond a 7 reasonable doubt that two alleged co-conspirators had an 8 understanding to accomplish the objectives of the conspiracy 9 charged in the indictment.

10 With respect to each conspiracy count charged in 11 Counts One through Five, you must also find that the alleged 12 conspiracy had one or more illegal objectives. The objectives 13 of a conspiracy are the illegal goals that the co-conspirators 14 agree or hope to achieve. Here the defendant is charged in 15 counts One through Five with agreeing with others to commit 16 insider trading. I've already explained the elements of that 17 offense in instructing you on the substantive charges. If the 18 government fails to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the 19 objective of the conspiracy alleged in the count that you are 20 considering was insider trading, then you must find the 21 defendant not guilty on that count. However, if you 22 unanimously find beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant 23 and others agreed to accomplish the objective alleged in the 24 conspiracy count you are considering, then the illegal purpose 25 element will have been satisfied.

1 Count One charges a conspiracy between Mr. Rajaratnam
2 and certain Galleon employees to engage in insider trading. In 3 addition to the instructions that I have just provided you 4 regarding conspiracies in general, for Count One you must also 5 determine whether the government has proven the single 6 conspiracy charged in Count One or different separate 7 conspiracies. Whether there existed a single unlawful 8 agreement or many such agreements or, indeed, no agreement at 9 all is a question of fact for you, the jury, to determine in 10 accordance with the instructions I give you.

11 When two or more people join together to further one 12 common unlawful design or purpose, a single conspiracy exists.
13 By way of contrast, multiple conspiracies exist when there are 14 separate unlawful agreements to achieve distinct purposes.
15 Proof of several separate and independent conspiracies is not 16 proof of a single overall conspiracy charged in Counts One of 17 the indictment, unless one of the conspiracies proved happens 18 to be the single conspiracy described in Count One of the 19 indictment.

20 You may find that there was a single conspiracy 21 despite the fact that there were changes in personnel by the 22 termination, withdrawal or additions of new members or 23 activities or both, so long as you find that some of the 24 co-conspirators continued to act for the entire duration of the 25 conspiracy for the purposes charged in the indictment. The

1 fact that the members of the conspiracy are not always 2 identical does not necessarily imply that separate conspiracies
3 exist. On the other hand, if you find that the conspiracy
4 charged in Count One of the indictment did not exist, you 5 cannot find the defendant guilty of the single conspiracy
6 charged in Count One of the indictment. This is so even if you 7 find that some conspiracy other than the one charged in the 8 indictment existed, even though the purpose of both 9 conspiracies may have been the same, and even though there may 10 have been some overlap in membership.

11 Similarly, if you find that the defendant was a member 12 of another conspiracy and not the one charged in the 13 indictment, then you must acquit the defendant of the 14 conspiracy charged. Therefore, what you must do to determine 15 whether the conspiracy charged in Count One existed is to 16 determine the nature and the membership of that conspiracy.

17 If you conclude that the government has proven beyond 18 a reasonable doubt that the conspiracy charged in the count you 19 are considering exists, you must then proceed to the second 20 element of the conspiracy charges, and that is membership. You 21 must determine whether the defendant joined the conspiracy 22 knowing its unlawful purpose or purposes and with the specific 23 intent to further its unlawful objective. The government must 24 prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant unlawfully, 25 willfully and knowingly entered into the conspiracy, that is

1 the agreement, with a criminal intent, that is, with the 2 purpose to violate the law and that he agreed to take part in 3 the conspiracy with knowledge of its unlawful purpose and with 4 the specific intention of furthering its objective. In this 5 case that objective was the offense of insider trading.
6 I've already defined "willfully" and "knowingly" when 7 I instructed you as to the substantive charges. Let me now
8 define "unlawfully" to you. Unlawfully simply means contrary 9 to law. Science has not yet devised a manner of looking into a 10 person's mind and knowing what that person is thinking.
11 However, you do have before you the evidence of certain acts 12 and conversations alleged to have taken place with the 13 defendant or in his presence. The government alleges that 14 these acts and conversations show beyond a reasonable doubt the 15 defendant's knowledge of the unlawful purpose of the 16 conspiracy. The defendant denies these allegations. It is for 17 you to determine whether the government has established to your 18 satisfaction beyond a reasonable doubt that such knowledge and 19 intent on the part of the defendant existed.
20 It is not necessary for the government to show that 21 the defendant was fully informed as to all the details of the 22 conspiracy in order for you to infer knowledge on his part. To 23 have guilty knowledge the defendant need not know the full 24 extent of the conspiracy or all the activities of all of its 25 participants. It is not even necessary for the defendant to

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

1 know every other member of the conspiracy. In fact, the 2 defendant may only know one other member of a conspiracy and 3 still be a co-conspirator, nor is it necessary for a defendant
4 to receive any monetary benefit from his participation in a 5 conspiracy or even have a financial stake in the outcome. It 6 is enough if he participated in the conspiracy unlawfully, 7 intentionally and knowingly as I have defined these terms.

8 The duration and extent of the defendant's 9 participation in the conspiracy has no bearing on the issue of 10 his guilt. He need not have joined the conspiracy at the 11 outset. He may have joined at any time it was in progress and 12 he will still be held responsible for all that was done before 13 he joined and all that was done during the conspiracy's
14 existence while he was a member. Each member of the conspiracy 15 may perform separate and distinct acts. Some conspirators play 16 major roles while others play minor roles in the scheme. An 17 equal role is not what the law requires. In fact, even a 18 single act may be sufficient to draw a defendant within the 19 scope of the conspiracy. However, I want to caution you that a 20 person's mere association with a member of a conspiracy does 21 not make that person a member of the conspiracy even when that 22 association is coupled with knowledge that a conspiracy is 23 taking place. Similarly, mere presence at the scene of a 24 crime, even coupled with knowledge that a crime is taking 25 place, is not sufficient to support a conviction. In other

1 words, knowledge without agreement and participation is not 2 sufficient.

3 What is necessary is that a defendant participated in 4 a conspiracy with knowledge of its unlawful purpose and with an 5 intent to aid in the accomplishment of its unlawful objective.
6 In sum, the defendant with an understanding of the unlawful 7 nature of the conspiracy must have intentionally engaged, 8 advised or assisted in the unlawful objective for the purpose
9 of furthering an illegal undertaking. The defendant thereby 10 becomes a knowing and willing participant in the unlawful 11 agreement, that is to say, a conspirator. A conspiracy once 12 formed is presumed to continue until either its objective is 13 accomplished or there's some affirmative act of termination by 14 its members. So, too, once a person is found to be a member of 15 a conspiracy, he is presumed to continue his membership in the 16 venture until its termination unless it is shown by some 17 affirmative proof that he withdrew and disassociated himself 18 from it.

19 The third element of conspiracy that the government 20 must prove beyond a reasonable doubt is that at least one of 21 the co-conspirators, not necessarily the defendant, committed 22 at least one overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy here in 23 the Southern District of New York, which includes New York 24 City, New York. The purpose of the overt act requirement is 25 that there must be some overt step or action by at least one of

1 the conspirators in furtherance of the conspiracy. The overt 2 act element is a requirement that the agreement went beyond the 3 mere talking stage, the mere agreement stage. The requirement 4 of overt act is a requirement that some action be taken during 5 the life of the conspiracy by one of the co-conspirators in 6 order to further that conspiracy.

7 I'm going to read to you, you'll find it in the 8 indictment, but I'll read to you the overt acts that are 9 alleged in each of the five counts of conspiracy. The overt 10 acts alleged in the indictment in connection with Count One 11 are, A, that in or about 2005, a co-conspirator provided Mr.

13 Circuit Systems, Inc.

14 B, that in or about 2006, Mr. Rajaratnam obtained

5 with Count Four are A, that in or about 2006 Mr. Kumar spoke to 6 Mr. Rajaratnam by telephone about AMD's planned acquisition of 7 ATI. B, that on or about August 15, 2008, Mr. Kumar spoke with 8 Mr. Rajaratnam on Mr. Rajaratnam's cell phone and, C, that on 9 or about August 15, 2008, in New York, New York, Mr. Rajaratnam
10 caused Galleon tech to purchase shares of AMD common stock.

11 And finally, with respect to Count Five, the overt 12 acts alleged in the indictment are, A, that on or about 13 July 24, 2008, Ms. Chiesi called Mr. Rajaratnam from New York, 14 New York; B, that on or about July 25, 2008 in New York, New 15 York, Mr. Rajaratnam caused Galleon tech to sell short

19 Ms. Chiesi, who was in New York, New York.

20 You are not required to find that the specific overt 21 acts identified in the indictment were committed. You may find 22 that overt acts were committed that are not alleged in the 23 indictment. The only requirement is that one of the members of 24 the conspiracy, again, not necessarily the defendant, has taken 25 some step or action in furtherance of the conspiracy in the

1 Southern District of New York, which includes New York, New 2 York during the life of the conspiracy. You are further 3 instructed that the overt act need not have been committed at 4 precisely the time alleged in the indictment. It is sufficient 5 you are convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that it occurred at 6 or about the time and place stated, as long as it occurred 7 while the conspiracy was still in existence. However, you must 8 all agree on at least one overt act that a conspirator
9 committed in order to satisfy this element.

10 In other words, it is not sufficient for you to agree 11 that some overt act was committed without agreeing on which 12 overt act was committed. You should bear in mind that the 13 overt act standing alone may be an innocent lawful act.
14 Frequently, however, an apparently innocent act sheds its 15 harmless character if it is a step in carrying out, promoting, 16 aiding or assisting the conspiratorial scheme. You are 17 therefore instructed the overt act does not have to be an act 18 that in and of itself was criminal or constitutes the objective 19 of conspiracy.

20 (Continued next page)

21 THE COURT: The indictment charges that the 22 conspiracies set forth in Counts One through Five existed 23 during certain time periods. It is not essential that the 24 government prove that the conspiracies started and ended on 25 those specific dates. Indeed, it is sufficient if you find

SOUTHERN DISTRICT REPORTERS, P.C.

(212) 805-0300

Charge

1 that in fact the charged conspiracy you are considering was 2 formed and that it existed for some time within the period set 3 forth in the indictment, and that at least one overt act was 4 committed in furtherance of the conspiracy within that period.

5 There is one final element of the charges that I need 6 to instruct you about, and that applies to each one of the 7 substantive charges and each one of the conspiracy charges. In 8 addition to the elements I have described to you in the 9 indictment, the government must prove, with respect to each of 10 the counts charged, that an act in furtherance of the crimes 11 occurred within the Southern District of New York. The 12 Southern District of New York includes all of Manhattan.

13 Now, the law does not require that every aspect of the 14 crime charged in each count of the indictment occur within the 15 Southern District of New York. It simply requires that some 16 act in furtherance of the crime occur there. With respect to 17 the conspiracy, it does not require that all of the steps of 18 the conspiracy took place in the Southern District of New York.
19 Indeed, it is sufficient if some act in furtherance of the 20 conspiracy took place in this district.

21 I should note that on the venue issue, and on this 22 issue alone, the government need not prove venue beyond a 23 reasonable doubt, but only by a mere preponderance of the 24 evidence. Thus, the government has satisfied its venue 25 obligations if you conclude that it is more likely than not

1 that any act in furtherance of the crimes charged occurred in 2 the Southern District of New York. If you find that the 3 government has failed to prove this venue requirement by a 4 preponderance of the evidence, then you must acquit the 5 defendant of the charge that you are considering. However, 6 with respect to all of the other elements, keep in mind that 7 the government must prove those elements beyond a reasonable 8 doubt.

9 That concludes my instructions as to the elements of 10 the crimes charged. I will now give you a few additional 11 instructions regarding your duties as jurors.

12 Under your oath as jurors, you cannot allow a 13 consideration of possible punishment that may be imposed upon a 14 defendant, if convicted, to influence you in any way or in any 15 sense to enter into any of your deliberations. The duty of 16 imposing sentence is for the Court and for the Court alone.
17 Your function is to review the evidence and determine whether 18 the defendant is or is not guilty upon the basis of the 19 evidence and the law. Therefore, I instruct you not to 20 consider punishment or possible punishment in any way in your 21 deliberations in this case.

22 You are about to go into the jury room and begin your 23 deliberations. You will have in the jury room copies of the 24 exhibits introduced into evidence should you wish to consult 25 with them during your deliberations. If during those

1 deliberations you want to hear any of the recorded calls that 2 have been introduced into evidence, they will be played for you
3 back here in the courtroom. If you want any testimony read 4 back to you, that will also be done here back in the courtroom.
5 Please remember that it is not always easy to locate a specific 6 piece of testimony or particular tapes, so be as specific as 7 you can in making your requests.

8 Your requests for testimony or to hear recordings -- 9 in fact, any communication with the Court -- should be made to 10 me in writing, signed by your foreperson, and given to the 11 marshal outside your door. I will respond to any questions or 12 requests you have as promptly as possible, either in writing or 13 by having you return to the courtroom so that I can speak to 14 you directly. In any event, do not tell me or anyone else how 15 the jury stands on the issue of the defendant's guilt until a 16 unanimous verdict is reached.

17 Your verdict must be based solely upon the evidence 18 developed at the trial or the lack of evidence. It would be 19 improper for you to consider, in reaching your decision as to 20 whether the government has sustained its burden of proof, to 21 rely on any personal feelings you may have about the 22 defendant's race, religion, national origin, sex or age. All 23 persons are entitled to the presumption of innocence and the 24 government has the burden of proof.

25 Similarly, it would be improper for you to consider

1 any personal feelings you might have about the race, religion, 2 national origin, sex or age of any of the witnesses that have 3 come before you. The defendant is entitled to a trial free 4 from prejudice and our judicial system cannot work unless you 5 reach a verdict through a fair and impartial consideration of 6 the evidence.

7 Under your oath as jurors, you are not to be swayed by 8 sympathy. You are to be guided solely by the evidence in the 9 case, and the crucial question you must ask yourselves as you 10 sift through the evidence is: Has the government proven the 11 guilt of the defendant beyond a reasonable doubt as to any 12 count that you are considering?

13 It is for you and you alone to decide whether the 14 government has proved the defendant guilty of the crime 15 charged, solely on the basis of the evidence and subject to the 16 law as I have now instructed you. It must be clear to you that 17 once you let fear or prejudice or bias or sympathy interfere 18 with your thinking, there is a risk that you won't come to a 19 true and just verdict.

20 If you have a reasonable doubt as to the defendant's 21 guilt, you should not hesitate to render a verdict of acquittal 22 on that charge for the defendant. But, on the other hand, if 23 you find that the government has met its burden of proof with 24 respect to a particular count, you should not hesitate because 25 of sympathy or any other reason to render a verdict of guilty

1 on that charge.

2 I will, as I said, send a copy of the indictment into 3 the jury room for you to have during your deliberations. You 4 may use it to read the crimes with which the defendant is 5 charged with committing. You are reminded, however, that an 6 indictment is merely an accusation and is not to be used by you 7 as proof of any of the conduct charged.

8 A verdict form has also been provided for your 9 convenience and you will be given a copy of this form in the 10 jury room. The answer to each question must be the unanimous 11 answer of the jury. Your foreperson will check off the 12 unanimous answers of the jury in the space provided below each 13 question. Follow the verdict form carefully.

14 After you have reached your decision, your foreperson
15 will in the form that has been given to you. Once complete, 16 the foreperson should sign and date the form and advise the 17 marshal outside your door that you are ready to return to the 18 courtroom. I stress that each of you should be in agreement 19 with the verdict, which will be announced in court. Once your 20 verdict is announced in court, it cannot ordinarily be changed.
21 Nothing said in these jury instructions and nothing in the 22 verdict form provided for your convenience is meant to suggest 23 or convey in any way or manner any hint as to what verdict I 24 think you should find. What the verdict shall be is your sole 25 and exclusive duty and yours alone.

5 Other than those functions, the foreperson shall have no
6 greater or less authority than any other juror.

7 Your function now is to weigh the evidence in this 8 case and to determine the guilt or nonguilt of the defendant 9 with respect to each count of the indictment.

10 You must base your verdict solely on the evidence and 11 these instructions as to the law and you are obliged under your 12 oath as jurors to follow the law as I have instructed you, 13 whether you agree or disagree with the particular law in 14 question.

15 The verdict must represent the considered judgment of 16 each juror. In order to return a verdict, it is necessary that 17 each juror agree to it. Your verdict must be unanimous.

18 It is your duty as jurors to consult with one another 19 and to deliberate with a view to reaching an agreement, if you 20 possibly can do so without violence to individual judgment.
21 Each of you must decide the case for him or herself, but to do 22 so only after an impartial discussion and consideration of all

INSTRUCTION NO. 9

Securities Fraud

With these preliminary instructions in mind, let us now turn to the two specific charges against the defendant.

The first charge against the defendant is securities fraud.

First, that in or around May, 2008, Ms. Jiau engaged in an “insider trading” scheme, in that she unlawfully obtained from an employee of Marvell Technology Group material non-public information about Marvell that she then in effect sold to persons who traded on that information;

Second, that when she engaged in this scheme, Mr. Jiau acted knowingly, willfully, and with an intent to defraud Marvell; and

Third, that in furtherance of the scheme, there occurred at least one use of any means or instruments of transportation or communication in interstate commerce or the use of the mails or any facility of any national securities exchange.

As to the first element, each employee of a company like Marvell has a legal duty not to disclose to anyone outside the company financial or other information about the company that the company has not yet made public and that has not otherwise been disclosed to the general public. This confidential “inside information” is “material” if a reasonable investor would consider it important in deciding whether to buy or sell Marvell stock. In order to establish the first element in the context of this case, the Government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt, first, that in or around May, 2008, Ms. Jiau induced Stanley Ng, an employee of Marvell, to disclose to her material inside information about Marvell's earnings and/or finances, in return for which Mr. Ng anticipated some kind of benefit, however modest, such as stock tips or simply friendship; and, second, that Ms. Jiau then disclosed this information to Samir Barai and/or Jason Pflaum, in return for money and/or other things of value, anticipating that Barai's hedge fund would trade on the basis of this inside information.

As to the second element, the Government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Ms. Jiau undertook this insider trading scheme "knowingly" (that is, consciously and voluntarily, rather than by mistake or accident or mere inadvertence), "willfully" (that is, deliberately and with a bad purpose), and with an "intent to defraud" (that is, with an intent to cheat Marvell).

As to the third element, the Government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the execution of the insider trading scheme involved at least one use of any instrumentality of interstate commerce, such as an interstate telephone call, or the mails, or a facility of a national securities exchange, such as a stock trade on the New York Stock Exchange, the National Association of Securities Dealers Automatic Quotation System (known as NASDAQ), the American Stock Exchange, or the Chicago Board Options Exchange.

Count Two - Securities Fraud:

First Element - Scheme or Artifice to Defraud - Insider Trading

The first element that the Government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt is that, in connection with the purchase or sale of Marvell stock, the defendant employed a device, scheme or artifice to defraud, or engaged in an act, practice or course of business that operated, or would operate, as a fraud or deceit upon a purchaser or seller of the specified security.

A "device, scheme or artifice to defraud," is merely a plan for the accomplishment of any fraudulent objective. "Fraud" is a general term that embraces all efforts and means that individuals devise to take advantage of others.

The specific "device, scheme or artifice," and "act, practice, or course of business" that the Government alleges the defendant employed in connection with Count Two is known as "insider trading." An "insider" is one who comes into possession of material, nonpublic information about a specific security or stock by virtue of a relationship that involves trust and confidence. If a person has such material, nonpublic information by virtue of a position of trust or confidence, and his position of trust or confidence prevents him from disclosing that information, the law forbids that person from trading in the securities in question or assisting others to trade in securities on the basis of that information.

The law also prohibits a person who is not actually an insider from trading in securities based on material nonpublic information, if the person knows that the material, nonpublic information was intended to be kept confidential and was disclosed in violation of a duty of trust or confidence.

The defendant is charged with insider trading as a "tippee," that is, based on the allegations that she received material, nonpublic information and wrongfully used it for her own benefit when she knew that the information had been disclosed in violation of a duty of confidentiality. A person who receives material nonpublic information engages in an act of fraud or deceit under the federal securities laws if she buys or sells securities, or aids or abets the purchase or sale of securities, based on material, nonpublic information that she knows was disclosed by another person in breach of a duty of trust and confidence.

In order to find that the Government has established the first of the three essential elements of the federal crime of insider trading - namely, that, in connection with the purchase or sale of a security, the defendant employed a device, scheme or artifice to defraud - you must be persuaded of each of the following things beyond a reasonable doubt. First, that the insider at Marvell who disclosed the information- the "tipper"- had a relationship of trust and confidence with Marvell Technology Group, Ltd., and as a result of that relationship was entrusted with information with the reasonable expectation that he would keep it confidential and would not use it for personal benefit. Second, that the tipper at Marvell directly or indirectly breached that trust by disclosing material, nonpublic information to WINIFRED JIAU in or about May 2008. Third, that WINIFRED JIAU knew that the information she obtained had been disclosed in violation of a duty. Fourth, that JIAU used the material, nonpublic information to purchase the security you are considering, or aided or abetted another in doing so. In addition, the government must establish that the tipper personally benefitted in some way, directly or indirectly, from disclosing the material nonpublic information.

McDermott, 00 Cr. 61 (KMW) (S.D.N.Y.); and the charge of the Hon. Robert P. Patterson in United States v. Naseem, 07 Cr. 610 (S.D.N.Y.). See also United States v. Falcone, 257 F.3d 226, 234 (2d Cir. 2001).

defendant is of bad character or has a propensity to commit crime.

REQUEST NO. 21

Securities Fraud: First Element --
Scheme or Artifice To Defraud -- Benefit

If you find that, in connection with the stock you are considering for a particular count, RAJARATNAM traded based on material non-public information that was disclosed in breach of a duty, then you must determine whether the insider you are considering personally benefited in some way, directly or indirectly, from disclosing that information. The Government can establish that the insider you are considering benefited from his disclosure by showing that the insider received some tangible benefit, or that the insider would gain some future advantage, or that, based on the relationship between the insider and the person to whom he disclosed it, the insider gave the information with the intention to confer a benefit on the recipient, or as a gift, or to benefit himself in some other manner. You are permitted to base your finding of a benefit to the insider on all the objective facts and inferences presented in this case.

Adapted from the charges of the Hon. Richard J. Sullivan, United States v. Contorinis, 09 Cr. 1083 (RJS) (S.D.N.Y.); The Hon. Robert P. Patterson, Jr., in United States v. Naseem, 07 Cr. 610 (RPP); see also Dirks v. SEC, 463 U.S. 646, 664 (1983) ("there may be a relationship between the insider and the recipient that suggests a quid pro quo from the latter, or an intention to benefit the particular recipient. The elements of fiduciary duty and exploitation of non-public information also exist when an insider makes a gift of confidential information to a trading relative or friend"); SEC v. Warde, 151 F.3d 42, 48 (2d Cir. 1998) ("[T]he Supreme Court has made plain that to prove a § 10(b) violation, the SEC need not show that the tipper expected or received a specific or tangible benefit in exchange for the tip ... Rather, the 'benefit' element of § 10(b) is satisfied when the tipper 'intend[s] to benefit the ... recipient' or 'makes a gift of confidential information to a relative or friend.'"); SEC v. Sargent, 229 F.3d 68, 77 (1st Cir. 2000) ("the 'benefit' to the tipper need not be 'specific or tangible'... "maintain[ing] a useful networking contact" constitutes a benefit).
